BDO Stoy Hayward Case Study

BDO Stoy Hayward are a firm of accountants and advisers, part of the world's fifth largest accounting network, Internationally consisting of 89 independent Member Firms employing over 25,000 people operating in 105 countries from 621 offices.

BDO Stoy Hayward has been in Bristol for nearly three years and in that time has been the fastest growing accountancy office in the South West. Opening a Bristol office was a strategic move for the firm who were looking to invest in a number of cities. Bristol was chosen over a selection of others being recognised as a key financial centre within the UK, and, a city that attracts high calibre employees in the form of both graduates (from Bristol's two quality Universities) and qualified staff relocating away from London.

In those three years the office has grown from 30 to now over 70 staff and offers a wide spectrum of service offerings tailored to the demands of its client base. The office plans to double in size over the next three years.

BDO Stoy Hayward will soon be the first completely carbon neutral accountancy firm and its Bristol office is dedicated to doing its part to ensure carbon is reduced and that the local community benefits from having such a thought provoking and cutting edge organisation on its doorstep.
